

Magic

I am looking for the right home for my special little grey mare, 11.3hh, 13 yrs old.

Magic is excellent on the lead rein, and is being sold either as a pony for a lead rein beginner or as a showing or show jumping prospect with a stronger more competent handler / rider. She would be ideal as a shared pony for different riding capabilities.

Magic enjoys work and can seriously jump!

She easily clears 2'9" whilst being free schooled and is happy to jump a course of 2'3" – 2'6" and I am sure with the right rider and fitness level she will happily do a bigger course. Due to other ponies, she has only been lightly competed by my 12 year old daughter this year, but always placed show jumping. Her previous owner had also been very successful in first ridden and in hand classes. Magic is a pretty and very bright little mare who will benefit from an experienced home where she has lots to do. She can be strong willed and therefore off the lead rein does need a capable rider to take her further.

This little pony has bags of energy and is great fun to free school and has done a bit of horseball.

Magic is pretty easy in every way, she lives out with shelter all year, does not need shoes and is only occasionally rugged. She is easy to groom and is good for the farrier and to travel. We clipped her out last year without any problems.

She has been very happy to be turned out for winter, with my gelding horse and pony mare and lives off 'fresh air'. I have no history of illness in the 4 years I have known her.

This cheeky little mare deserves a committed experienced home, where her full talents are going to be recognised and she will excel and she is therefore priced to sell before we lose the summer.
